

DAVID IRVINE WINS THE IRVINE FARM

In Preliminary Decision In Trial of Mrs. Elizabeth Irvine's Will Case In Circuit Court

First honors in the contest between David Irvine, of Kansas City, Mo., and William Irvine Greenway, of Reno, Nevada, for ownership of the fine farm of about 300 acres on the Lancaster and Barnes Mill pike, under the will of the late Mrs. William M. Irvine, were won by Mr. Irvine in the Madison circuit court Friday morning. Judge Shackelford overruled a demurrer filed by Attorney Grant E. Lilly, of Lexington, to answer in the case filed by Attorney John Noland, of this city, and Judge John D. Carroll, of Louisville, for Mr. Irvine.

While only a preliminary step in the case, this action by the court is regarded in court circles as indicative of a final judgment, for in the arguments of counsel before the court, the entire facts in connection with the will of the late Mrs. Irvine and her late husband, Wm. Irvine, were set forth at length. Extended arguments were made by attorneys for all parties involved with the exception of Attorney A. R. Burnam, representing John W. Crooke, executor of the will, who is interested only to the extent of obtaining an exact and legal construction of the will of Mrs. Irvine.

There was a brilliant array of legal talent present when the Irvine will case came up at motion hour in circuit court Friday morning by agreement of attorneys. Representing John W. Crooke, executor of the will, was Attorney A. R. Burnam, of this city; representing David Irvine, of Kansas City, Mo., were Judge John D. Carroll, former chief justice of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, and attorney John Noland, of this city; representing Wm. Irvine Greenway, of Reno, Nevada, was Attorney Grant E. Lilly, of Lexington, and representing David Irvine White, of Huntsville, Ala., and Mrs. Shelby M. Walker, of New Orleans, was Attorney Henry M. Duncan, of Lexington.

Judge Walker, of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, of New Orleans, was here also, looking after his wife's interests.

At motion hour, Attorney John Noland filed an answer on behalf of David Irvine to the demurrer of Wm. Irvine Greenway. Judge Shackelford consulted with the attorneys and it was agreed that the question of title to the farm could be settled on demurrer. Attorney A. R. Burnam, representing Executor Crooke, said that he did not desire to be heard on this argument; that as he saw it there were two questions to be passed upon at such a hearing: the question of disposition of the farm and alleged failure of Mrs. Irvine to have reinvested certain sum which came under the will of the late David Irvine.

Judge Shackelford said he would hear arguments first regarding disposition of the farm under the will of Mrs. Irvine. Agreement was had among the attorneys and the court as to procedure of argument. Judge Lilly then stated his demurrer to the answer of David Irvine. He alleged that the farm had come to Mrs. Irvine in fee simple by the will of her husband; he said the first paragraph of her husband's will gave her the farm in fee simple; that his will stated that in the event she dies intestate he desired to make certain disposition; that she did not die intestate but made her last will and testament. He pointed out that in the concluding paragraph of Wm. Irvine's will his wife was given absolute power to alter, change, approve or revoke any portion or the whole of his special bequests.

Judge Lilly argued that the will having given the property to her in fee simple, any subsequent disposition of it was void, and that after having given it to her in fee simple there could be no remainder. He pointed out that there was express revocation in her will of any bequest of stocks, bonds or real estate to any children of Sara or Addison White. He declared that even if the title to the farm had not been given her in fee simple she was given the express right to dispose of it as she saw fit, which she did in her will; and that she had made William Irvine Greenway her residuary legatee, and that he therefore inherited both her real and personal property not otherwise devised.

Attorney John Noland, representing Mr. Irvine, followed Judge Lilly and pointed out that the will of Wm. Irvine gave to David Irvine White his farm of over 200 acres for life and at death to go in remainder to his son, David Irvine White, Jr., on the condition that he drop the "White" from his name and be known as David Irvine. Which condition, Mr. Noland pointed out, had been complied with by his client. He argued that Mrs. Irvine took only a life estate in this farm, and that the intent that it should go to David Irvine White, of Huntsville, Ala., for his life and then to David Irvine, in remainder was shown in both wills. He said that in her will she made such changes as she desired regarding her husband's will and as she was empowered to make, but that she did not change the bequest of her husband regarding the gift of the farm to David Irvine. He pointed out that she had given large sums in bonds, etc., to William Irvine Greenway, but had let stand the bequest of her husband of the farm to her nephew, David Irvine White and his son, David Irvine.

Attorney Henry Duncan, of Lexington, representing the father, David Irvine White, of Huntsville, Ala., and Mrs. Shelby Walker, of New Orleans, referred the court to the will of David Irvine, father of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Irvine. Mrs. Walker is a daughter of the late Addison White, and of Mrs. Irvine's sister. Some question is raised regarding 124 acres of this farm, which descended from David Irvine, and regarding reinvestment of proceeds by Mrs. Irvine. Judge Shackelford said he would hear arguments on that point after question of disposition of the farm under the will of Mrs. Elizabeth Irvine had been disposed of. Attorney Duncan pointed out that Mrs. Irvine did not revoke bequest of the farm as made by her husband; he argued that to revoke his bequest she must give it to some other which she did not do.

Judge Carroll for Mr. Irvine made the most extended argument of the case, and the most comprehensive as to law and facts. He asserted that when the intention of any will is ascertained, that controls absolutely; that it is the controlling and dominating factor of every will; that it has been so decided and so written many, many times by the Court of Appeals. He declared that the intention of the late Wm. Irvine was clearly shown to have been that his wife should have a life estate in the farm with power of disposition. He pointed out that a legatee of a will concerns a personal estate and a devisee estate of real property. He said that there was no ambiguity in the will. Mrs. Irvine had the power to change any or all of the provisions of her husband's will but she must show the changes she desired and could not do so by any sweeping change. He said that Wm. Irvine's will and Mrs. Irvine's will read together plainly show their intention. Judge Carroll pointed out how Mrs. Irvine had changed every one of the 13 bequests of her husband's will, except that disposing of the farm; he argued that she never meant to change the disposal of the farm from the way her husband had bequeathed it; that it was the most valuable item of the property in their estate and that surely she would not have overlooked mention of it had she desired to change the method of its disposition that her husband had provided for.

Judge Carroll further argued that under the residuary clause of her will, Mrs. Irvine would not pass the farm until she had first annulled the disposition that her husband had made of it in his will; that nowhere had she mentioned such a step, regarding her husband's disposition of the farm and it was plain to see that she had intended that this farm, already disposed of by her husband should go as he intended it, according to the will.

Judge Lilly concluded the arguments regarding the farm declaring that a mere question of law was involved, that Mrs. Irvine had been given a fee simple to the farm and she had a right to include it was a residuary portion of her estate in her will, naming William Irvine Greenway as her residuary legatee. Judge Lilly pointed out that a limitation cannot be placed upon a fee simple title. He called attention to the first paragraph of William Irvine's will which gave his property to his wife and made certain dispositions of it "if she dies intestate," but, he pointed out, she left her last will and testament and gave the farm to Wm. Irvine Greenway as her residuary legatee. Judge Lilly claimed that in making a will of her own she had revoked her husband's entire will. He declared the power of disposition of an estate unlimited and not controlled by any technicality of law; and that in exercising that power she gave away her entire estate, disposing of it as her own property, as her husband's last will and testament "returns it all to me."

Judge Lilly said they claimed that a residuary clause had not that effect, but pointed out that the property was hers absolutely and that she disposed of it as she saw fit and that what was left was disposed of in the residuary clause of her will. Judge Lilly said that in her revocation of the bequests to the children of Addison White, that she plainly meant the grandchildren also; that she was speaking of them simply as a class, as several of the children were dead, and their children remained. He also pointed out that she repeatedly, three times, named William Irvine Greenway as her residuary legatee, and that she knew what had and what had not been disposed of. He argued that Mrs. Irvine received the title to the farm in fee simple; that she had the power of absolute disposition of it; that the farm under the residuary legatee clause of her will went to Wm. Irvine Greenway; that stocks, bonds, real estate and everything else left by her will, not mentioned as going to a specific bequest went to the residuary legatee, Mr. Greenway. Judge Lilly said she had a strong affection for him as he was named for her husband and he said he understood the value of the estate left the other claimants amounted to about $100,000 in Missouri and other property.

Judge Shackelford then overruled the demurrer to David Irvine's answer, as passing upon the right to the farm in the court's eye and announced that in the afternoon he would hear further argument regarding 124 acres of the farm, involved under the will of David Irvine.

BIG STILL FOUND OVER IN ROCKCASTLE

A forty-gallon capacity moonshine still was raided in the neighborhood of the headwaters of Little Clear creek, a few hundred yards of the Rockcastle and Madison county lines, near Boone Station, Wednesday morning. A complete outfit and about 200 gallons of corn meal mash and beer about ready to run, together with about six bushels of dry corn meal, were destroyed. No arrests were made at the time of the raid, but the operators are known and their arrest is expected to take place in the near future. Deputy Sheriff James Saylor, of Rockcastle county, with other deputy officials, constituted the raiding party.

and it was plain to see that she had intended that this farm, already disposed of by her husband should go as he intended it, according to the will.

M'VEY DISCUSSES FARM SCIENCE

State University Head Talks on Scientific Agriculture at University of Minnesota

Minneapolis, Minn., May 13.—The problem of scientific agriculture is the problem of every department of the great universities of the country and not solely that of the agricultural departments and experiment stations. Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, declared in an address here today at the inauguration of L. D. Coffman as president of the University of Minnesota. He spoke on "The University and the Development of Agriculture."

Asserting that he was not certain that agricultural education had been received into full fellowship of the University faculties due to their failure to appreciate its problems and a feeling that it emphasizes the practical and loses sight of the principles of science, Dr. McVey asserted that it was time it was realized that agriculture is the problem of every department of the university.

Dr. McVey sketched the history of agricultural education from the time of the act giving to agricultural universities large tracts of land which he said they frittered away. This was followed in 1887 by formation of the experiment stations designed to work out agricultural problems, but which have been saddled with many other duties that have taken their work off scientific problems to a great extent.

The question of saving food-stuffs, destruction of animal parasites, productivity of soils and such matters are laboratory questions. Breeding, he asserted, stands about where it did fifteen years ago.

Declaring that although the government sends out information on the condition of crops, the farmer is meagerly supplied with price information, he voiced the need of some medium for aiding the farmer to get the value of his products. Telling of the effort to reduce the acreage of tobacco, which he said was hampered by the lack of information, he said: "A solution can be worked out and probably will be, but it is necessary to have the co-operation of economists, botanists and plant experts, the press, the farmers and the buyers. What I am trying to intimate is that the universities would have proved the well as others, a real duty to supply the technical knowledge."

Foresight on the part of universities would have provided the needed information, he said, "but the very restrictions upon experiment stations in the lack of funds and extraordinary duties in many fields have acted as checks in the presentation of the information now so greatly valued."

Agriculture, he continued, cannot be developed in short periods. The problem is a long time one. Research-work done in the past has been along narrow laboratory lines with individual problems. This touches only the fringe and is necessary, but "the larger aspects of agriculture as a whole must be grasped by the university and research conducted as a whole and not by the piecemeal plan."

Dr. McVey said that he did not mean that the university must organize agriculture or conduct the business side but that it must provide the scientific data. "There rests upon the university," he concluded, "the very clear duty to restore the experiment station to its real function, to enlarge its vision of the great service that can be rendered agriculture, raise the instruction to higher efficiency and recognize that the training of men for this field is one of the greatest functions it can undertake."

FIERCE FIGHTING IN MINE SECTION

Kentucky-West Virginia Border is Scene of Long Distance Shooting in Mine War

(By Associated Press) Williamson, W. Va., May 13.—Mountain warfare which raged yesterday and intermittently throughout the night over a seven mile front in the West Virginia and Kentucky coal strike region was resumed vigorously this morning. Reports said heavy firing is in progress at McCarr, Ky., the eastern end of the trouble zone, and at Merrimac, W. Va., where yesterday's shooting started. Spasmic rifle firing was heard along the West Virginia-Kentucky borders. At Matewan an unidentified man was killed on a bridge leading from McCarr to the West Virginia bank of the Tug river this morning, bringing the known casualties to three dead and two wounded. Three blasts of shooting were stopped. The fiercest fighting occurred this morning at McCarr, where miners' sympathizers and mine guards are heavily armed with equipment which includes half a dozen machine guns and automatic rifles. Thousands of shots were fired at McCarr alone. Authorities says yesterday's firing was conducted with precision. A man with a fox horn blew one blast and shooting began.

Conflicting claims were made for the responsibility of the outbreak. Union miners claim non-union miners began the shooting. Operators say the first shots were fired by former strikers. Both agree the initial shots were fired from the Kentucky mountains opposite Merrimac.

Morrow Calls for Troops Frankfort, Ky., May 13.—Governor Morrow announced today he had telegraphed the war department for federal troops to patrol the West Virginia-Kentucky borders.

Pikeville Sees Fighting Pikeville, Ky., May 13.—Four persons were killed and one wounded in fighting along the Kentucky-West Virginia border in the last 24 hours, according to reports received here today. No names were given. Reports said the principal firing came from Spriggs, W. Va., when Pike county deputy sheriffs and a number of miners approached the state line. The West Virginia state police and miners were reported as participating in firing.

IN MEMORY OF J. HALE, FORMER MADISONIAN

John Hale was born May 28, 1885, and departed this life at 7 o'clock on the evening of May 2, 1921, at the hospital in Tuscola, Ill. His boyhood and young manhood days were spent on the farm of his father. On the 27th day of October, 1910, in Berea he married Miss Marie Chasteen, daughter of James Chasteen. Almost the whole of his married life was spent in Bourbon, Ill.

Born as the result of this wedding were two sons, James B. and Eugene, aged 8 and 4 years. Besides his sons, he leaves a broken-hearted wife, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hale; three sisters, Misses Maggie and Jeannette Hale and Mrs. T. J. Black; two brothers, Alva and Dewey Hale, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn his loss.

Surrounded by friends and wife, he peacefully passed away without a struggle or pain. With the passing of each day we are more reminded of the uncertainty of death. In this death how forcibly we are brought to face the fact that those young in years as well as the whitened heads of age must pay this debt.

How truly, oh, God, does it prove to us that there is a power that marks our existence, a divinity that shapes our ends that no master mind can alter, no human invention can change.

He is gone and there is left in our hearts and home a vacancy which no tears can express, no tongue can tell, no power on earth can fill. Brave, generous, kind-hearted, he was wanting in none of the virtues of pure, noble manhood. True to his family and his friends, he knew no enemies. While he never became a member of a church, he was a firm believer in the Baptist doctrine. He read his Bible and attended church. May it be said that were a flower placed on his bier and strewn on the pathway of his lifeless travel from his home to his resting place for each act of kindness and charity to others, his bier would be laden and his pathway covered. A loving husband, father, son and brother is gone and can never return.

The funeral services were conducted Friday morning, May 6, at 10:30 o'clock from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hale, and the body was taken to Richmond for burial. Rev. D. H. Matherly, of the Christian church, officiated. The pallbearers were: Active—Dewey Hale, Alva Hale, Lonnie Abrams, Chester Park, Willie Park, Bradley Cornett, honorary—Ernest Park, J. E. Park, Hume Park, Earl Flannery, T. J. Black. To the bereaved family we extend our deepest and heartfelt sympathy.

NORMAL FACULTY FOR NEXT TERM

Several New Members Take Places in Great and Growing Local Institution

At a recent meeting of the Regents of the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School, the following members of the faculty were re-elected for the coming year: Misses Roberts, Greenleaf, Gibson, Hammond, Horn, Lewis, Miller, Newell, Noland, Reid, Rice, Scrivner, Sullivan, Telford, and Wingo; also Mrs. Deane, Mrs. Hume and Mrs. Tyng.

The men re-elected at the same meeting were: Messrs. Boothe, Bruner, Caldwell, Carter, Cox, Deniston, Edwards, Grinstead, Hembree, Jayne, Keith, McClain, Myers, Robinson, and Smith.

New members added to the faculty, or rather offered positions on the faculty, were: Supt. H. L. Donovan, of Catlettsburg, Ky., Prof. Charles Lewis, of Berea, Ky., and Miss Elizabeth Burnam, of Richmond. It is understood that the acceptance of the positions offered them by some of the teachers of the present faculty is doubtful as more attractive positions are offered them elsewhere.

Owing to the large increase in the student body this year, and the probably greater increase next year, more teachers will have to be added, it is understood.

The Eastern Kentucky State Normal School is entering upon a season of growth and prosperity; its graduates are more and more in demand; the state is needing trained teachers in greater and greater numbers; the state is supporting the school generously; the President and Regents are exercising great care in selecting the teaching force; the very best, most highly trained teachers along up-to-date lines that can be secured at the salaries school is able to pay, will be employed at any time; and only teachers who are the best that can be secured at the salaries the school can pay, who can best serve the state and children of the state, will be permanently retained on the faculty. These facts are stated by authoritative sources.

Of the $5,600,000 raised in the United States by the China Famine Fund, Kentucky has raised so far nearly $60,000, while New York, which stands out by far as the leading state, has raised approximately $300,000. But Kentucky's population is 1-15 that of New York, and Kentucky stands tenth in the list, the Rev. E. Y. Mullins, chairman of the China Famine Fund, points out with pride. In addition to this sum raised in Kentucky by the China Famine Fund committee an equal amount raised by Kentucky Church organizations for the

HAVE YOU FORGOTTEN?

"Help the Salvation Army lassies put the 'dough' in doughnuts."

Although the armistice was signed long ago, no service man, nor the parents or relatives of service men have forgotten what the lassies did "ovr there" when the Yanks most needed care.

The Salvation Army made a name for itself; it stood the acid test. Now it is asking for funds that it may continue standing this test.

While doughnuts are no longer necessary to keep up the morale of our fighters, everything that the doughnuts stood for during the war represents the general work of the Salvation Army here during peace time.

Through contributing to the Salvation Army cause you are assisting the lassies and those the lassies represent to keep up the good work of helping "down and out" mankind.

A dollar may not mean much to you, but it means a great deal to a broken-down man or woman, a hungry or ill-clothed child or a poor invalid in time of dire need.

Do not take the appeal of the Salvation Army workers lightly. Dig down deeply into your purse and feel yourself more than repaid by the smile that enters your heart.

It took "dough" to make doughnuts during the war; it will take "dough" to keep up the morale of the needy during peace time.

You have the "dough," the Salvation Army needs it badly. Are you going to fail the lassies in time of need after what they have done for you and yours?

Not as long as doughnuts are made of "dough."

STANSELL CARNIVAL DRAWS BIG CROWDS

Despite the inclement weather of the week, a good crowd has been in attendance at the Moonlight shows, and it was the consensus of opinion that it was the cleanest carnival that has ever visited Richmond.

Manager D. W. Stansell has been on the job every minute of his stay in the city, and he has made friends on every side. He is well-known throughout this section, having resided in Lexington for many years, and his organization is a sure winner wherever it goes.

While the weather conditions have been against him this week, he has been fortunate in having good crowds each night, and with clearer weather today and Saturday, the Deatherage lot will not accommodate the crowds. His many friends in Richmond are urging him to bring his carnival back for a week's engagement later in the season, and similar requests have been made in other towns in the Blue Grass where he has played this season, and in all probability return dates may be filled during the summer.

'ISLE OF CHANCE'

The musical people of the Normal school enjoyed a great treat last night when Dr. Myers presented the opera, "The Isle of Chance," composed by Otis M. Carrington. The solo work was exceptionally fine, showing the high order of training which the Department of Music offers to students. The appreciation on the part of the audience, of good music, was manifested by repeated encores and much enthusiastic applause.

The dramatic action throughout the entire opera was most artistic, each performer proving to be an embryonic star on the operatic horizon. For amateur work, this was by far, the best musical performance given in recent years at the Normal.

Affairs like this give evidence of the wonderful talent for music and the drama, which is to be found among the young men and women of Kentucky; it is everywhere, in the remotest parts of the country, awaiting proper educational advantages that it may be cultivated and made a source of pleasure and profit. Music and more music for the children of the state; for every rural community, where the children of the poor as well as those of the more fortunate, may have richer, fuller lives, must be the desire of all those who heard the performance last night.

The First Baptist church reserves the first Saturday in December for their annual bazaar.

Live fish have been found in the bottom of a Transvaal gold mine at a depth of 5,800 feet.

Tickets now on sale at Stockton's drug store for the University of Kentucky Glee Club Concert to be given in the Normal chapel Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Hardest Job in Every Business

In nearly every line production has been increased on account of the war. The hardest job ahead is to find a market in peace times for what those factories turn out. Money is made—not in manufacturing—but in selling. Yet selling seldom receives the attention it deserves.

The number of factories a manufacturer can build—the profit he can earn—are limited by the amount of merchandise for which he can find a profitable market.

If demand can be kept ahead of production, a profitable market is sure. And the one way to keep demand ahead of production is by advertising—teaching the public to use more of your goods.

In the past the South has bent her energies on manufacturing. The marketing of her products were largely left to others who took the raw materials and staples and converted them into specialties, trade-marked, advertised and sold them. And, invariably, it is the selling of specialties that pays the wide margin of profit and the selling of staples that pays the slim.

Greater profits—keeping conditions in our hands instead of on them—depend upon our marketing our goods as well as upon our making them.

The South's cotton goods should be known by brand-names in Detroit just as we know and buy the various makes of automobiles produced by the citizens of that enterprising Michigan city.

Lumber, of which the South is the Nation's greatest possessor, will be needed for reconstruction and the merits of our various woods should be convincingly told by advertising.

The South is the greatest fat-producing section of America. In the vegetable oils from her cotton-seed, peanuts and soy beans she produces more fat than all the dairy cows of America—more fat than all the hogs slaughtered in a year. More Southern-made and marketed compound lards and salad oils would bring additional millions into Dixie.

Cane syrups, coffees and all the other epicurean delights for which the South is famed would find a bigger demand if backed by adequate advertising. And such a demand would automatically fix a profitable price.

Marketing our products as well as making them would furnish work for the hands and brains of our returning sons—provide room for the tallest ambition and stop the emigration to the North and West of the talented and ambitious.

There was a time when we could sell the merchant and let him push the goods. But today the hardware, grocery and drug stores will carry from 2,000 to 10,000 different items. Pushing any one is impossible.

Wise manufacturers are marking their goods so that they can be recognized—telling the public about their merits and inducing the folks to pull them off of the shelves. And in this respect, at least, an ounce of "pull" is worth a pound of "push."

The advertising agencies of the South have had years of experience in advertising and marketing many commodities. They know the methods that have proved successful, because their whole time is engrossed with the problems of selling.

Their contact with leading manufacturers in many lines has made them intimate with various methods of winning trade—methods of securing distribution—fighting substitution. It is their business to know how business is being built.

Their services cost nothing. They are paid a commission by the publishers to make advertising profitable to the manufacturer. It will be a revelation to many business men to know the varied forms of assistance these agencies can render—information on markets, containers, trademark law, distribution methods, dealer cooperation, service in preparing booklets, copy-writing and real information on the value of different classes of advertising media.

Write, wire or phone any of the accredited advertising agencies of the South and arrange a conference with them to discuss how to increase sales. Let them help you solve the hardest job ahead.

Elderly People Need This In Medicine Chest

To relieve chronic constipation, always keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin handy.

NEARLY all people as they advance in age suffer from chronic constipation. Many, however, are indifferent to the laxative they use, on the theory that "they are all alike." That is a great mistake.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, for example, is a mild, gentle liquid laxative, and it does not lose its effect with repeated use. It so trains the bowel muscles that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

A sixty-cent bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last many months. The prescription was written thirty years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, a well-known family doctor, who is himself now in his 82nd year and can appreciate what chronic constipation must mean to elderly people; how it brings on headaches, colds, loss of appetite and sleep, heaviness and a general dull feeling.

Every home that has an elderly man or woman should be provided with a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Eight million bottles were bought at drug stores last year. It is a truly wonderful constipation remedy.

TRY IT FREE

Send me your name and address and I will send you a free trial bottle of my Syrup Pepsin. Address me Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 513 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois. Everybody now and then needs a laxative, and it is well to know the best. Write me today.

Buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy before leaving home. As a rule it cannot be obtained when on a hunting, fishing or prospecting trip. ## Clever Points in New Coats

IT is a little late in the day for the appearance of new developments in coats, yet they appear and need make no apology, for the last efforts of the designers appear to be their best. Furthermore, there is little prospect of any radical change in present styles—they are too satisfactory to be soon neglected or discarded. The coat purchased now is destined to pay its due of service and discharge its duties well. The new arrivals are smart in line, skillfully made and, when bought in good qualities of wool materials, may be depended upon for a long life in the world of fashion.

Two very handsome models, as pictured, present the advantages of the scarf collar. At the left a model brings to mind again the unfailing charm of the Russian blouse inspiration, with its fastening at the left side of a long row of buttons and loops. It is cut with dolman sleeves and thus preserves the trimness of the straight line mode without its severity. Its very clever trimming of an embroidered band somehow manages to simulate a short cape. The scarf ends, and also those of the long and narrow girdle, are finished with ball trimming.

The cape-coat, or mantle, at the right is another example of skillful designing in which the body of the garment, with dolman sleeves cut in it, is set onto a deep cape. Turned-back cuffs, ornamented with rows of machine stitching, bespeak the most painstaking tailoring, and rows of covered buttons defining the shoulder line bear out this testimony. The scarf ends support handsome and dignified silk tassels. Both coats have inconspicuous and practical slit pockets and both are elegant and graceful.

On the dressier coats for this season French knot embroidery is effectively used in bands or otherwise to redeem the simple lines and plain materials from severity. It is newer than solid embroidery, but not its rival.

ANOTHER RICHMOND CASE

It Proves That There's a Way Out for Many Suffering Richmond Folks

Just another report of a case in Richmond. Another typical case. Kidney ailments relieved in Richmond with Doan's Kidney Pills.

D. B. Gayhart, Irvine St., Richmond, says: "I had attacks of kidney complaint. My back was weak and I had a dull pain through the small of it, just over my kidneys. I was stiff and lame through the muscles of my back and when I got up mornings I could hardly get around. I was told that Doan's Kidney Pills were good for the trouble, so I got a box at Stockton Drug Store and they relieved me right away. My back got strong and I felt better in every way. If I ever have another attack I will take Doan's, for they act quickly on the kidneys."

Shenstone," will welcome the news that in its screen adaptation by Robertson-Cole, as a special vehicle for the sterling emotional actress Pauline Frederick, not a fragment of its atmosphere, or the delicacy of its character delineations has been lost.
Miss Frederick in the role of Lady Myra Ingleby, is as truly Lady Ingleby, as if Mrs. Barclay had written the character about her. Even in her physical appearance she fits the description of the big souled English woman who faces life's tragedies with a smile and at last finds happiness. "The Mistress of Shenstone" will be shown at the local theatres Saturday.

Nat Goodwin used to say that every man in America, regardless of his occupation, was secretly writing a play. So far as moving pictures are concerned the secret is out. Everybody is writing for moving picture and everybody admits it. This is undoubtedly a good thing for pictures. The daily mails are heavy with rejected manuscripts and I believe it to be a conservative statement that the number of screen plays rejected weekly by the studios of America runs into the thousands.

There are many reasons—but see Louise Glaum in "Sex" at the local theatres Tuesday.

JILLSON FIGURES ON STATE OIL PRICES

Frankfort, Ky., May 13—Prices of crude oil in Kentucky fields from February 1913, to March 1,

1921, show a wide variation at different times but with a decided upward trend from April, 1915, to October, 1920, according to figures compiled by Prof. W. R. Jillson and just made public in a series of economic papers on Kentucky Geology. The lowest price for Somerset grade, the best grade of oil produced in the state throughout the period, was 85 cents a barrel on August 20, 1913, and for Ragland grade, the second best, 63 cents a barrel from April 3 to August 17, 1915. The highest price of Somerset was $4.50 on October 31, 1920, and for Ragland, $2.60 on September 23, 1920.

With the start of 1921 the price began to drop, quotations for Somerset standing at $4 on January 8; $3.75 on January 21; $3.50 on January 31; $2.75 on February 4; $2.25 on February 11; $2 on February 15; $1.75 on February 21, and $1.65 February 26, where a slight raise began until at the time of this writing Somerset is quoted at $1.95 a barrel. Somerset light grade, which began making its appearance on the reports to the state tax commission in 1920 brings a premium of from 10 to 25 cents a barrel over the prices given above. Prof. Jillson, in an article accompanying the compilation of prices, estimates the total value of crude oil produced and marketed during 1920, at $33,525,210.33 an increase of $9,066,191.59 over 1919.

A WOMAN'S NOBLE WORK AMONG LEPROS

(By Associated Press)
London, May 13—A story of heroic self-sacrifice and devotion has reached England from the leper village of Chandag, India, where Mary Reed, a solitary white woman missionary, is giving her life to ministry to the sufferings of her fellow lepers.

News of her isolated life was brought back by Mr. Oldrieve, from a 70,000-mile journey visiting all the leper colonies in India.

Thirty years ago Miss Reed went into this desolate spot in the Himalayas, 6,000 above sea level, offering herself to the leper cause. Although a victim of the malady, she is still able to carry on her spiritual work among these afflicted like herself.

Miss Reed seldom sees white people for her station is 80 miles from the nearest railway line. There are 46 women lepers in the community and 19 men in the men's refuge a short distance away.

According to Mr. Oldrieve, there are 200,000 lepers in India. "At present," he declared, "it is not right to say that any cure for leprosy has been found."

Men and Women of Renown From All Parts of the World Come to Louisville to Witness the Running of This Historic Race.

CABINET MEMBERS AMONG THOSE IN ATTENDANCE THIS YEAR

Few of us native Kentuckians realize, perhaps, what a truly magnificent world event the Kentucky Derby has come to be.

Year by year, it has grown steadily in popularity, until now it tops all other sporting events on the calendar; thereby advertising the state as millions of dollars' worth of space in the public prints could not possibly do, besides attracting periodically hosts of people who spend their money freely and greatly benefiting an industry of vast importance to Kentucky in particular—the breeding of the thoroughbred horse.

The list of personages who cheered the winner of the 1921 Kentucky Derby would stretch out far beyond the limitations of this little article. Suffice to say that it included several members of President Harding's cabinet; distinguished visitors from abroad and financial and commercial giants from all parts of the country; some of the latter the owners of horses that started in the Derby and heavy investors in Kentucky estates, elaborately improved and primarily maintained as breeding establishments.

HAS ANYBODY ANY IDEA ABOUT THIS 'ERE MILE?

"A Richmond Reader" Says He is Sole Wise Person on Very Mysterious Girlish Action

The Daily Register publishes the following letter for what it may be worth to any of its readers:

City, May 12, 1921.
Editor Daily Register—Sir: I've been wondering for weeks and weeks if your Richmond readers are sensitive enough to resent being told they'd had their bumions, corns, et cetera, stepped upon countless times and didn't know it, as it were, and that stepping—"high stepping," too—done by a figure of aristocratic lineage who "sets off" the characters in calculating her wealth with two healthy commas.

Nonsense? Dream? Neither. Since the idea of November, about the time the world was made unsafe for the Democrats this modern female Robinson Crusoe, Joseph Addison, or what you will, has been living in Richmond, attending church among us, laughing at Pollard comedies and thrilling at Ruth Roland and Bill Duncan serials at the Alhambra and opera house and doing the other thousand and one things we all do, and beside myself no other person has known her from any other stranger we will inevitably meet now and then. Then, too, have any of the good pool players about the city been "fleece"ed by a silent and "handsome" young "traveling man"? Yes, if so, she's the star of my story. And, also, I wonder if any of the good motor drivers of Richmond recall the fact of having to "excuse my dust" frequently on some of our better or worse country roads?

Don't read ahead—like unto the manner in which a woman reads a novel to feast upon the finish—see who she is, where she is, how long she will stay, or where she is going. I won't tell. But here is a proposition. If you accost her and accuse her of being this person, she will confess. Bring her to the front of the opera house at 7 o'clock Saturday evening, May 14, and collect a $10 bill.

And here is a little tip we won't charge for. If once you "spot" her, don't take your eyes off, or she may change sex, age and your own equilibrium.

A RICHMOND READER.

KENTUCKY DERBY AN HISTORIC CONTEST

(By Associated Press)
Louisville, Ky., May 12—Intense interest shown in the Kentucky Derby brings to light the fact that the distance run—a mile and a quarter—was used twice previous to 1871, during which the record was established at 2:14 1/2. Fifty years ago Frogtown lowered the record to 2:09 1/2, while the fastest record of those days was made in the great race between Longfellow and Henry Bassett on June 16, 1872, when the winner made the mile and a quarter in 2:08 1/2.

Since the inauguration of the Kentucky Derby, which adopted the mile and a quarter distance in 1896, the record has been lowered several times. Old Rosebud, winner of the 1914 renewal, setting the present record of 2:03 2/5. Old Rosebud carried an impost of 114 pounds.

The Kentucky Derby, as old as it is, is young in the history of horse racing in Kentucky. Fayette county, for many years considered the most famous racing spot in America, if not in the world, for its fine and fast blooded horses long has been noted as the home of "winning" horses, remarkable for their speed and endurance on the turf.

The first record of a race in the state was in August, 1789, and it has been kept up with slight interruptions ever since. The first organized association was formed in 1797 when the Lexington race course was built and continued until 1897 when the Lexington Jockey Club was organized. This latter organization was succeeded in 1823 by the organization that is now known as the Kentucky Jockey Club and which operates tracks at Lexington, Louisville and Latonia.

In July, 1926, breeders combined to "improve the breeding of blooded horses by encouraging the sports on the turf" and the present jockey club came into existence.

In the early days races of from three-quarters to four miles were

WHO CAN TELL ABOUT THIS ANCIENT COIN?

What is believed to be the oldest coin in Madison county is in possession of Mr. James Beasley, of Walnut Street, who found it in Estill county while at work there about eight years ago. The coin is an old Spanish coin minted in 1760. On one side it bears the Spanish coat of arms, and around the edge this lettering:

"CRS III—DG—His et Ind R"

on one side of the coat of arms are the numerals IV and the other I. The above is taken to mean by a pseudo-Spanish scholar as Charles III, king of Spain and the Indies. On the reverse side of the coin are two pillars, with an insignia slightly worn in the center and around it this lettering: N VIRA QUE R.

Numismatics are requested to write the Daily Register and tell what they know of such a coin. It is of silver, about the size of a dime. Mr. Beasley says that he found it at Old Landing. Sings near the Winding Stairs in Estill county near where Jesse Land and David Irvine were killed by Ned Hawkins. He values it very highly. He has refused offers for it as high as $5, and would really like to know what it is worth and what it is called.
